

1

State Laws

What are the homeschool laws and regulations in your state? How can you make sure that your curriculum and timetable comply with these guidelines?

2

Vacations/ Breaks

What are your family's vacation preferences and priorities? How often do you plan to take breaks each year? Do you prefer off-season or summer vacations? Any potential conflicts with other homeschool commitments due to travel plans?

6

Routine

When organizing your homeschool schedule, strive for balance by incorporating academics, extracurricular activities, family time, and self-care in a practical manner to emphasize well-being and uphold balance efficiently.

Brain Dump

3

Calendar

Consider your desired start and end dates, year-round versus traditional schedule, Sabbath schedules/extended breaks, holiday observances, and time for assessments and planning. Homeschooling provides scheduling flexibility, so focus on what suits your family's needs.

4

Learning Styles

Do you know your children's unique learning styles and your preferred teaching method? How can you adapt your homeschooling to meet each child's individual needs?

5

Budget

When budgeting for homeschooling, prioritize financial resources for curriculum, materials, extracurricular activities, memberships, and resources to plan a successful academic year without requiring a large budget.